

A Pink Cellular Phone Is The In!

Believe it or not, pink is currently the color that is considered trendiest. The fact of the matter is that wedding gowns that are being made today are colored pink! This is good news for lovers of pink. There are now pink cellular phone units. The following are the hottest and hippest pink cellular phones in town today. The Motorola V3m RAZR Pink Cellular Phone This pink cellular phone from Motorola is currently the classic all time cellular phone. The RAZR V3m Motorola is integrated with a VGA camera, a Bluetooth, video MPEG4 playback as well as a slim design. The RAZR Motorola is a clamshell thin pink cellular phone that was regarded initially as a phone that is fashion exclusive. Plus, it comes with a tag price of a whopping five hundred dollars as well as an eight hundred dollars service agreement. It was only in the year 2005 when this pink cellular phone from Motorola entered the wide mass market as a phone that is mid priced. It was also in the year 2006 when this pink cellular phone became available in the United Kingdom for a mere seventy pounds. Meanwhile, in Australia, the Motorola pink cellular phone was priced at two hundred and seventy nine dollars, while in Canada it sold for less than four hundred fifty dollars. The fact of the matter is, the development of this pink cellular phone began in the year 2003. By the next two years, Motorola had become very popular due mostly to its distinct look as well as slim size. Meanwhile, the first hot pink cellular phone was actually released in the year 2005. It became available in America the following year. Pink cellular phone from Sanyo SCP-3100 Believe it or not, this new pink cellular phone from Sanyo is actually a successor of Sanyo VI-2300. This pink cellular phone has an external large grayscale display as well as a 1.8" 65k internal colored one. Its functions are basically similar with the Sanyo 2300. The only difference is that this pink cellular phone comes with a mirror, VGA camera as well as a self timer. Besides the color pink, this cellular phone also comes in the colors espresso and silver. This Sanyo pink cellular phone is considered as a low end cell phone that specifically targets those consumers who actually prefer a simple pink cellphone. The Sanyo pink cellular phone is affordable and comes in a solid clamshell. It also features a voice recording, VGA camera, roaming analog as well as a good quality speakerphone sound. However, this Sanyo pink cellphone is not able to show caller ID. There may also be instances where the internal display colors may look washed out. However, this Sanyo pink cellphone has features that are solid. Though this pink cellular phone may not look attractive, it is a decent mobile that belong to the mid tier. Pink cellular phone - The Sanyo Katana This new pink cellular phone is from Sanyo Katana. It is an ultra-thin pink cellular phone that could be compared to the RAZR Motorola brand V3i. Believe it or not, this clamshell fun pink phone is equipped with a VGA camera that is built in the unit, a connectivity Bluetooth capability, a QVGA 2.2 inch Main LCD Display, a speakerphone built in the pink phone, a one inch external LCD TFT display as well as a 65k capable color. The word Katana comes from the legendary weapon, a sword originally used by the knights in feudal Japan, or the Samurai. The pink cellular phone from Sanyo Katana provides a design that is ultra sleek and stunning that it evokes a deep passion for artistry and craftsmanship that has long been imbued in the old generations of master Japanese sword smiths. The features of the pink cellular phone from Sanyo Katana is that its battery is superior in performance as it allows a maximum of almost four hours in talk time. Its Bluetooth features is able to support the HFP, HSP, DUN profiles. Its digital camera has a VGA resolution, its capable to zoom in up to twenty steps, the brightness is controllable. This pink cellular phone also comes with a self-timer as well as picture effects and color tone. All in all, the pink cellular phone is in! It is cool and the features offered by the cellular phones above fit anyone's preference and lifestyle. Choose the best pink cellular phone unit that best suits you.

About the Author

Optical company which manufactures telescope optics in a wide range of apertures for amateur and professional.

Source: <http://www.productsherbal.com>