

Rehabilitation Therapy Online (RT or OT)

Online Rehabilitation Therapy Schools, colleges and universities allow students to study when and where studying is most convenient for them. Determined and dedicated adults have the option to earn Rehabilitation Therapy (RT) and occupational therapy (OT) degrees from well-known and respected schools, colleges, and universities through online programs. Online Rehabilitation Therapy universities and colleges provide students with intensive classroom studies, focused internships, and fieldwork. Students of Online Rehabilitation Therapy colleges come to understand the philosophy of the profession, realize their personal goals, and prepare for the responsibilities of their profession. Rehabilitation Therapy professionals assist individuals with physical, mental, cognitive, or sensory disabilities to become self-sufficient and productive. Rehabilitation therapists help people with disabilities to respond to social and personal challenges, plan careers, and perform with meaningful employment. Rehabilitation Therapy is an empowering process; therapists are responsible for teaching clients to exercise control over their lives. Professionals in Rehabilitation Therapy evaluate the potential for independent living and employment, recommend appropriate rehabilitation, make vocational assessments, and train for job placement. Rehabilitation Therapy graduates are qualified for employment with expertise counseling, psychosocial and functional aspects of disabilities, and vocational issues. Rehabilitation therapists are employed in mental health centers, hospitals, rehabilitation centers, insurance companies, and state agencies. Programs in distance learning Rehabilitation Therapy and occupational therapy may require periods of time in on-campus studies attending lectures and seminars and interacting with faculty and fellow students.
