

Not your ordinary cat

Together, they learn about the difficulties of co-existing on their way to understanding the true nature of love.

Samantha (Susan Louise O'Connor) is rescued from an animal shelter by Shuman (J.T. Arbogast) and takes up residence at his home in a forest. They hit it off quite well initially, until Shuman's reaction to Samantha's first conquest of a mouse suggests to her that he doesn't listen well and clearly doesn't understand her. This leads the couple to seek the help of a veterinarian, but instead they encounter Matilda (Laura Jordan), the vet's assistant, who believes she can communicate with cats. Then one evening Samantha discovers Oscar (Chapin Springer), an alley cat who rhapsodizes about the beauty of being outdoors and urges Samantha to join him.

Smitten, Samantha wants to go but is conflicted because she doesn't want to hurt Shuman. What will she ultimately do?

O'Connor is fabulous as Samantha, carrying off the role flawlessly and credibly. Her performance when Samantha gets her first mouse is outrageously funny and her interactions with her friend Oscar are both humorous and profound. She brings a richness and texture to the character that is impressive.

Arbogast is outstanding as well, perfectly capturing an owner's frustration with an often times inscrutable animal. His interchanges with Matilda are priceless, especially when she attempts to mediate between Samantha and him, reminding her that she is actually talking to a cat.

Jordan and Springer are excellent in multiple roles. Jordan's Matilda is wonderful, carrying off the belief that she can actually understand what a cat has to say and that it is possible to negotiate between a cat and a person. Her other role is that of Samantha's mother, warning her early on that she's going to the shelter and instructing her on how best to attract an owner.

Springer's Oscar is a perfect rendition of an alley cat, tempting his young female friend to join him in his exploits. His portrayal of the cat is right on target, capturing the characteristic motions of a feline while serenading Samantha with songs by Springsteen. He's also brilliant as Samantha's first mouse.

Director Samuel Buggeln has orchestrated an excellent version of Finkle's play, wisely avoiding costumes for the cats that would have actually been a distraction. The minimalist set places the focus on the actors themselves, allowing them to set the scene which they effectively do. And fans of the 1980s pop music scene have a treat in store with not only Springsteen, but also with music from entertainers like Madness, the Thompson Twins, Depeche Mode, ABC, and Olivia Newton John.

As the final scene faded, the audience responded with a resounding standing ovation. Nothing more needs to be said about this excellent production.

Hanoi, indiscriminate and loitering, but that particular meet, it seems inner degenerate and inert nature gradually evaporating out in Hanoi, run out of control.

This is not because of the holiday triggered by the casual attitude, but because such a stranger in Hanoi language, unfamiliar cultural environment, even a kind of deja vu feeling. Here, there are many places, the lives of many of the details, such as some cities in China feet, certain times, certain stories.

In wandering the streets of Hanoi, need not worry about the people behind various movements or sound, you expressed dissatisfaction with the sluggish pace, and will not need to worry about lost, not to worry about law and order.

The Hanoi streets simple straight, occasionally will see the ancient city gate, a bit like China's urban pattern.

But like many Chinese cities, in the streets Benz are all kinds of transport, walk all the way all the way loud whistling. Walk in the banyan forest along the street, was not that romantic.

Small share: From a can of cola to see restaurants price

To Hanoi for sightseeing, please do not think that Vietnam is relatively backward country will certainly cheap , and if you slight effect that may have on the face of the bill surprising.

And just open Chinese cities, restaurants to order food to take extra precautions, because many restaurants operating the self-employed does not know how to correctly face of reform and opening up, I do not know how to keep the tourists to visit Hanoi, so often arise Meng fat sheep slaughtered phenomenon.

I found a few days in Hanoi, a small secret: to restaurant meals, look at the menu, to see if we are most familiar with the price of clonidine, general, the prices fair restaurants, clonidine has been less than the price of one yuan dollars, if one yuan dollars higher than the menu, the prices of other vegetables are equally high, and sometimes the price of a meal or even your hotel Singapore consumption.

Therefore, in order food, see Coke prices will have a psychologically prepared, if you are very rich, of course, no problem, if your trip is to oversensitive it is necessary to choose those cola price less than 1 yuan dollars, then a meal down, Singapore money 20-30 yuan will be able to eat very satisfied. Take the famous Vietnamese coffee, you can have a cup of coffee?
