

Glitter bid to avoid sex register

Disgraced rocker Gary Glitter is considering settling in Hong Kong after completing his child sex jail sentence in Vietnam, to avoid going on Britain's sex offenders' register, it was reported.

Glitter, 63, told his Vietnamese lawyer Le Thanh Kinh that he did not want to return to Britain because he would be listed on the register, the South China Morning Post said.

Glitter, whose real name is Paul Gadd, was convicted in March 2006 of committing obscene acts with children. The incidents involved two Vietnamese girls aged 10 and 11 from the southern coastal city of Vung Tau.

The Post said Glitter had asked about starting a new life in Hong Kong where there was no sex offenders' register to track his movements.

"He doesn't know where he will live if he is released but he has spoken to Mr Kinh about moving to Hong Kong," a friend of the lawyer was quoted as saying.

"He told Mr Kinh on one of his visits, 'It's a big city where I can go around without being noticed. But I'll be able to get English food there!'"

Glitter was taken to hospital early this month for diarrhoea and a heart condition.

British embassy officials and Vietnamese prison authorities are discussing whether Glitter should be released during an annual prisoner amnesty just before the Lunar New Year, known as Tet, or under a sentence reduction on humanitarian grounds, the paper says.

His three-year jail sentence was cut by three months for good behaviour under Tet last year. He is due to complete his term in August.

He was convicted in Britain in 1999 of possessing child pornography, and served half of a four-month jail term. He later went to Cambodia but was expelled from that country in 2002. Cambodian officials did not specify a crime or file charges against him.

In the late 1980s, the People's Hospital of Zhongshan City, the hospital had its own newspaper - Civilization briefing, March 1998 renamed hospital communications, to enrich the content, covers a broader. Running this hospital the purpose of the publication is to inherit and carry forward the Chinese culture of the hospital, based on the National Palace Museum, publicity hospitals in the building of two civilizations emerged from good people and good deeds, publicity hospitals in the medical science and technology, science and technology in the hospital and use of birth new technologies and treatments, universal medical knowledge, the hospital staff reflects the rich cultural life of amateur of some unhealthy tendencies by goodwill and serious criticism, with a view to becoming the leadership and staff of the hospital, hospital and other hospitals, hospitals and social communication between the soul ties and bridges.

About the Author

From www.gazettelive.co.uk:

Because we are currently seeing a small epidemic of parvo virus in the area, we would like to take our newsletter space to help our patients' owners.

The Acadia Hospital inspires statewide improvement and is featured in National Council on Community Behavioral.

The United Hospital Foundation Newsletter highlights some of the activities and events sponsored by the United.

At Ehrlich Animal Hospital, we believe it is important to be involved with helping the community. We would like to share with you a few of our passions.

In support of being your partner in health, wellness and care, we produce a free quarterly newsletter, HealthLink, chock full of information.

The Web site for Thomas Jefferson University Hospital, its contents and programs, is provided for informational and educational purposes.

Through The Hospital Clown Newsletter, Shobi Dobi offers a tremendous service as she informs and encourages all of us clowns out here in the world.

Equine Hospital Newsletter. Colorado State University Veterinary Medical Center. College of Veterinary Medicine and Biomedical Sciences.

Knowledge.

Source: <http://www.productsherbal.com>