

Las Vegas council allocates outbreak funding

The Las Vegas City Council today committed the bulk of a $500,000 fine collected from a troubled endoscopy clinic to pay for medical care for the clinic's former patients, and also directed a chunk to the Metropolitan Police Department so that records from the clinic can be organized.

The City Council also set aside $100,000 for the Clark County district attorney's office should criminal charges be brought against the Gastroenterology Clinic of Southern Nevada.

Nevada Health Centers will get $239,000 to pay for hepatitis C testing and care for uninsured and underinsured patients of the clinic, which had several locations across the county. The offices closed earlier this year after medical officials documented unsafe injection procedures, which are suspected to have led to transmission of the blood-borne disease.

Police will get $161,000 to help pay for organizing more than 100,000 records from the seven clinics.
