

Used Inversion Tables

If you cannot afford to buy a new inversion table, you may go for a used one. There is no dearth of firms selling used inversion tables at affordable prices. The difference between a new and used inversion table of the same brand and make could be as much as 50 percent. Those who are planning to purchase inversion tables in bulk for their gymnasiums or health clubs could save a lot of money by ordering used inversion tables. There are firms in the market which deal exclusively in used inversion tables. Many of them also offer their products online. Some of them are ready to provide any kind of inversion table their customer wants. If they do not have it in stock, they order it. Sometimes a customer may like to have certain modifications done to a used inversion table before he buys it. Some companies offer services for carrying out these modifications without charging any additional amount; other firms may charge a customer over and above the cost of the inversion table. As a good inversion table can be expensive, used inversion tables are quite popular. There are a number of web sites which offer used inversion tables. Some auction sites also offer them. You can start bidding for them from as low as $1. If luck is on your side you may get a used inversion table at only one-tenth of the price of a new inversion table. However, before choosing a used inversion table, it is important to check its current condition. Some refurbished inversion tables might look good on the surface but they might not be worth the price tag they carry. It is preferable to buy a used inversion table with a warranty.
